Wear your uniform
Wear your uniform to your place of worship. Think about the things Girl Scouts and your place of worship have in common.

Learn a new skill.
Practice a skill that helps you explore something you’ve always wanted to try. Maybe even earn a badge while you’re at it!

Perform an act of kindness.
Whether you pay for a stranger’s coffee or visit an elderly neighbor, every bit of positivity Girl Scouts put out there makes the world a better place.

Make a promise to stop saying “can’t.”
Think about the times you’ve said, “I can’t do (something).” Write down your personal strengths then write a letter to yourself on how you can use them to do anything!

Create a “Birthday in a Bag” kit and donate it to your local homeless shelter or food bank for those less fortunate to use.

Learn more about Juliette “Daisy” Gordon Low.
Discuss how Girl Scouts started and who Daisy was in her community.

Besides reflecting on your beliefs and how they're echoed in the Girl Scout Law, take time to learn something new about someone else's faith.

Earn your My Promise, My Faith Award.
Work with your family and faith leaders to celebrate the connection between the Girl Scout Promise and Law and your faith.

Explore the world around you.
Push your boundaries and do something you’ve never done before.

Be a role model.
Lead younger girls in celebrating Girl Scout Week.

Get out your green gear!
Sport a Girl Scout T-shirt or wear your uniform to school to let everyone know what being a Girl Scout means to you.

Plant a tree.
The Girl Scout Tree Promise is striving to plant five million trees across the country in five years, and to protect new and existing trees. [Learn more!]

Give a big shout-out to your Girl Scout sisters!
Tag other Girl Scouts on social media or get creative and make a card or gift for a Girl Scout in your life. Share the love.

Throw a party for Girl Scouts!
Bring on the cake, games, and more. Invite friends who are not yet Girl Scouts.
