

Girl Coders

Girl Coders is a nonprofit organization that combats the gender gap by offering entry-level coding workshops to encourage young girls to experience STEM in positive, empowering ways.

CODING PATCH

Troop co-leaders, do you want to plan more STEM activities for your troop? Host a Girl Coders patch workshop! No coding experience is necessary for the troop co-leaders or Girl Scouts. Each of our workshops is a one-time, two-hour event that could be easily hosted during a regular troop meeting. The curriculum, available for a variety of popular and widely-used coding languages and tools, is designed to be accessible and self-contained. After completing a workshop, all girls receive a free embroidered patch as a physical reminder of her accomplishment. Visit our website for program details.
